COOPERATION PARTNERS
COMPACT, JOB-COMPATIBLE FORMAT

The program starts annually in April and consists of four semesters, i.e. 3 semesters of lectures plus 14 weeks for the master thesis in semester 4.

The program’s job-compatible format minimizes the time away from work and at the same time gives ample time for self-study between class weekends.

Lectures are scheduled on Friday afternoons (1pm to 8pm) and Saturdays (9am to 5pm) in semester 1-3. Each semester concludes with a semester break.

“The Master in Finance program at Goethe Business School offered me the opportunity to deepen my financial knowledge whilst pursuing my professional career in banking. In a rapidly changing business environment, managing financial and increasingly non-financial risk is crucial for businesses to succeed. The risk management specialization teaches you how to manage those risks using a unique combination of theory and practical knowledge. With courses taking place in the House of Finance, an excellent faculty as well as students from diverse geographical and professional backgrounds, Goethe Business School provides a perfect setting to study, network and advance your career.”

Fabian Menz, Class of 2017

“While working in the controlling department of a large multinational telecommunications firm, I was searching for an opportunity to broaden my financial knowledge, getting in touch with like-minded students with diverse professional and geographical backgrounds, and being guided through the program by experienced faculty with strong practical expertise. By connecting practical tasks and current events to the related theory, the program was a perfect choice for me. Participating in the Master in Finance is a challenging experience, which prepares you to take further steps in your professional life.”

Stefanie Petsching, Class of 2015

“Having obtained my bachelor’s degree, I was looking for a master program that would enhance my professional development. After careful consideration, I decided that the Master in Finance program at Goethe Business School meets my expectations. Three years later, I can whole-heartedly say that this was the right choice. The combination of being taught by high-profile and motivated lecturers as well as sharing this experience with a diverse group of fellow students helped me to advance in my career and – which is perhaps even more important – gain new friends and a broader network.”

Thomas Ackermann, Class of 2016
Students enrolling in the Master in Finance program have the option to specialize in the two most topical areas in finance: financial technology management or risk management & regulation. After finishing the general courses, they will choose specific courses as well as select a master thesis topic in their specialization field.

WHY CHOOSE THE MASTER IN FINANCE AT GOETHE BUSINESS SCHOOL?

When designing the program, we have taken into account the challenges of working professionals to find an ideal work-study balance. Our program format enables you to minimize the amount of time away from work and allows you to continue your professional career while pursuing a master’s degree.

Classes are held in the House of Finance on Goethe University’s Campus Westend, one of the most modern campuses in Europe. Located in the center of Frankfurt, at the heart of Europe’s business community, the House of Finance is one of the largest interdisciplinary international centers for research and education in the field of finance.

Students are matriculated at Goethe University and have access to all university facilities and services, including the RMV semester ticket for public transportation. When not in class, students will stay connected with professors, fellow students, and Goethe Business School staff through an online learning platform.

Students and graduates from the Master in Finance benefit from the growing alumni network of Goethe Business School and Goethe University’s Faculty of Economics and Business Administration.

Gaining practice-based know-how during the program, exchanging ideas with guest speakers from the financial world as well as sharing experiences with a stimulating and professional participant group will help students leverage their full career potential in finance. All classes are taught in English and, therefore, also qualify students for international careers. Successful completion of the program allows for admissions to further post-graduate studies (Ph.D., Doctorate).

The program is taught by Goethe University’s outstanding faculty as well as top professors from other leading institutions and prominent practitioners from the financial industry. The finance faculty at Goethe University boasts a prestigious international reputation for its thought-leading teaching and research, combining theory with market-relevant applications.

Students and graduates from the Master in Finance benefit from the growing alumni network of Goethe Business School and Goethe University’s Faculty of Economics and Business Administration.
